

Dear SciGirl! - It's easy to upload your science project to the SciGirls web site on pbskids.org, and share it with girls everywhere. Whether you go on a field trip, build an engineering project, enter a science fair, or do an experiment in your kitchen, you can share your discoveries on the SciGirls website at www.pbskidsgo.org/scigirls.

First, answer the questions on this worksheet. Have your parent or guardian sign the release form for any photos you submit. (We love photos!) Then, log onto the SciGirls site. Register if you haven't already. Create your own avatar, design your room, and make up your profile.

Then surf to the Projects section of the site, click on "Submit a Project" and enter the information from this worksheet. After we review your project, we'll share it with the world!

Upload Photos.

Share your project photos! But first, here are a few things to know:

1) We need a release form from every person who appears in the photos. If you are younger than 18, your release must be signed by a parent or guardian. Download a release for minors or release for adults. We will not put your photos on the SciGirls site without signed forms.

2) You can return the signed release forms to SciGirls three ways:

Email us at: scigirls@tpt.org; fax us at: 651.229.1570; or Send snail mail to us at:

Scigirls, Twin Cities Public Television. 172 E Fourth Street, Saint Paul, MN 55101

Be sure to send us a release for each person in the photos!

Please note that all photos you see on our site—including those of girls who appear on the show—are here because we've received the proper release forms. Also note: All submissions become the property of SciGirls and will be eligible for inclusion in all media, including on TV, on the Web, in print materials, and in other ways.

3) Your project will go live on the SciGirls site after we review it, which may take a few days. Check back, and, in the meantime, check out the projects submitted by other girls, and comment on them!

THANKS, SCIGIRL!

Make sure you are done with your project before you click "Submit." You cannot edit your page after it has been submitted.
